

DIGITAL SUPPORT EXPERIENCE:

The Service Desk upgrade for the way we work today

No matter the issue, whether it's related to remote work, tech upgrades, security, or connectivity, your employees benefit from better access to user-centric support, and your organization wins too.

The IT support you provide your users must be proactive, versatile, and above all else, it must be accessible. Better support improves organizational productivity because it quickly resolves many of the technology issues that lead to costly user downtime.

Self-service capability

CompuCom's Digital support experience with access to support via chat, web, text or over the phone (formerly Service Desk) is designed with our customers' users in mind. We support a wide range of technology to help keep your employees up and running no matter what devices they're working with—desktop, mobile, peripheral, or 'Bring your Own Device' (BYOD). Our 24/7/365 remote support technicians quickly triage and diagnose issues, wherever your employees are working from, at home or in the office. This allows them to remain productive throughout their workday, regardless of their hours.

Your technology helps drive your business.

Your IT support keeps it seamless along the way.
