Ras Al Khaimah
BEYOND A JOURNEY

About Ras Al Khaimah

Meaning “top of the tent” in Arabic, Ras Al Khaimah is the northernmost of the seven Emirates that make up the United Arab Emirates (UAE). It is known for its rich history, dating back 7,000 years, and diverse landscape, with 64km of pristine beaches, terracotta deserts, and an imposing mountain backdrop. The Emirate is home to the highest peak in the UAE, Jebel Jais, which features the world’s longest zip line at almost 3km.

Previously known as Julfar, Ras Al Khaimah covers an area of 2,478 square kilometers, making it the fourth largest emirate in the UAE. Historically, Ras Al Khaimah supported fishing, pearl diving, and copper smelting communities. Ras Al Khaimah has a moderate climate for roughly eight months of the year, usually between October and May. The other four months are hot and humid. It is generally between 40-47°C in summer, while winters are pleasant, with temperatures averaging 18-26°C during the day. Winters generally see irregular rainfall, which can be accompanied by minor street flooding.

Ras Al Khaimah shares its border with four other emirates (Sharjah, Fujairah, Umm Al Quwain, and Dubai) and the Omani enclave of Musandam. A network of highways connects Ras Al Khaimah to other emirates, and the city center is only an hour's drive from Dubai and three hours from Abu Dhabi. Ras Al Khaimah is also centrally located at the modern crossroad between Europe, Asia, and Africa, with one third of the world's population within four hour's flying time. His Highness Sheikh Saud bin Saqr Al Qasimi has been the ruler of Ras Al Khaimah since 2010 and is dedicated to making Ras Al Khaimah a vibrant home for both Emiratis and expatriates from around the world.

Today, His Highness and the government have fostered a diverse and expanding economy. Notable sectors include industry, tourism, trade, real estate, cement, and ceramics. As a testament to the emirate's evolving economic, social, and cultural opportunities, Ras Al Khaimah has enjoyed an increase in its population over the past few decades. The Sheikh Saud bin Saqr Al Qasimi Foundation for Policy Research created this guidebook as a catalogue of the emirate's offerings as a tourist destination, industrial and business center, and family-friendly community. It is our hope that this resource enables all Ras Al Khaimah residents to fully engage with the local community.

Cultural Tips For Expats

- When having a conversation with someone, it is usually good to build rapport by asking how the person and his/her family are doing before getting straight to business, especially during formal meetings.
- Emirati culture places a high value on relationships and hospitality. Wherever you go, try to get to know people. If they offer you Arabic coffee, it is usually respectful to have some. Hosts may keep refilling your cup until you wiggle your empty cup while holding it. This gesture implies that you do not need any more coffee. Also, when having Emiratis over, it is good to offer them some tea or coffee before starting the conversation.
- If you are invited to a majlis, remove your shoes at the entrance. Males and females are usually seated in different places, so do not be surprised if you are guided to a section different from your friend, colleague, or family member.
- It is considered common courtesy to stand when a new guest enters your office or home. For men, it is important to stand when a woman enters the room.
- When greeting a Muslim of the opposite sex, do not extend your hand unless the other person does so first. Women may prefer not to shake hands with the men for religious reasons. While not as common, some men also like to show respect for a woman, who is not their spouse or family member, by abstaining from a handshake.
- When sharing a meal with an Emirati family, it is good to try to eat as much as you can but leave a small amount on the plate as this shows that the host has been generous. If you leave the plate empty, the host may continue to refill your plate.
- When admiring something that someone else has, it is good to say “Mashallah,” which literally means “in God’s will,” but within this context means “may you be protected.” This is an old tradition in the Arab culture.
- In some places, like banks, women have their own sections in which to conduct business. Women may also be given priority in queues
- It is important to dress modestly, particularly in conservative areas and public places. For men, shorts and t-shirts are suitable in many public places like parks and malls, but when visiting mosques, businesses, religious sites, or older parts of the city, it is recommended that men wear clothes that cover their legs and shoulders. For women, it is most appropriate to dress in attire that covers the shoulders and legs up to the knee in most places, although in older parts of the city, it is preferable to dress in loose-fitting long clothing. Pants, dresses, and skirts are acceptable.
- Enjoy your time in the United Arab Emirates, as Emiratis are some of the most generous and hospitable people you will get to meet!

Anna's Picks

Anna Zacharias is a journalist who was raised in Ras Al Khaimah. She is the author of the book People of Ras Al Khaimah, which she developed in collaboration with American photojournalist Jeff Topping.

Things To Do

Camel Racing

On Friday mornings between October and April, camels race at the Suan racetrack, off the airport road. Drivers tune in their radio for live commentary and race alongside dromedaries in 4x4s beside the track. It is a man's world, so women should not go alone. One of the tracks requires a 4x4. Races begin around 7am and end by 9am. Borrow a plastic camping mat. Tables and chairs are for suckers. Go minimal, go majlis style.

Invest in a fake gold plastic coffee pot (dallah), which you'll see for sale in Carrefour or Old RAK. They are a quintessentially Khaleeji keepsake when you leave and handy to keep in your car with a few paper cups while you live here. On roadtrips, I fill mine with tea from small cafeterias for a fair, and sometimes heavily negotiated, price, so I can offer tea to whoever I meet when I need to give thanks for directions, or for help getting out of the sand. You will meet people and you will get stuck in the sand.

Rounding

If you or your friends have a car then you can enjoy the cultural institution of rounding, the zen art of cruising for tea. Hundreds head to Old RAK in the hour before sunset on Fridays to drive down the old fish market road and along the old Corniche, rounding from teashop to teashop. The drink of choice is karak, or cardamom milk tea, but the old town's takeaway cafeterias offer everything from Chips Oman Sandwich to cornflakes. Yes, cornflakes. Start opposite the fish market and cruise your way around. Popular stops are Mandarine Cafeteria (Old Corniche), Blue Sea (Kuwaiti Street) and Estikanat Shay (near the Old RAK fish market).

Preening

An evening visit to the henna parlours of Old RAK and beauty salons of Khuzam can leave you refreshed, inside and out. Go from 8pm, when saloons are at their most social. Don't even think about getting your hair done in Ramadan, when fasting can hinder concentration and the days before Eid are packed.

Camping

The Gulf is a great place to camp. Good weather means you don't need much gear, and good roads can get any car to rugged landscapes. Here are three tricks to camping in the UAE:

1. Ditch the tent. It never rains. Sleep open air on a mattress with a few sheets, you'll catch a good breeze, a great view of the stars and a better night's sleep. Tents catch dew and attract scorpions. If you want shelter from the sun, pack a tarp. (In the rare event of a grey sky, stay home. Wadis are prone to flash floods.)
2. Borrow a plastic camping mat. Tables and chairs are for suckers. Go minimal, go majlis style.
3. Invest in a fake gold plastic coffee pot (dallah), which you'll see for sale in Carrefour or Old RAK. They are a quintessentially Khaleeji keepsake when you leave and handy to keep in your car with a few paper cups while you live here. On roadtrips, I fill mine with tea from small cafeterias for a fair, and sometimes heavily negotiated, price, so I can offer tea to whoever I meet when I need to give thanks for directions, or for help getting out of the sand. You will meet people and you will get stuck in the sand.

Hangouts and Quick Snacks

Murad Zahi

Ras Al Khaimah's best chilli chicken. It also serves standard fare like dhal and grilled fish at reasonable prices.

 : Near HSBC in Old RAK
 : 07 233 1160

Noor Al Sham

Most restaurants shut from 3pm until 6pm and close until late afternoon on Friday. At Noor Al Sham, you can always rely on open doors and generous portions of Levantine dishes.

 : Across from Naeem Mall on Bin Dhaher street
 : 07 222 2318

Titanic

If you plan to explore the abandoned pearl village of Al Jazirah Al Hamra, which you absolutely should, this is a great pitstop for South Indian food.

 : In the strip mall near the fort-shaped ADNOC gas station

 : 07 244 7176

Traditional Coffee Shop

The chilli idli is a favourite sidedish for lunch or dinner. The masala dosa is a perfect breakfast after a trek up the mountains.

 : Around the corner from Safeer Mall

 : 07 221 2164

Venus Deluxe

The chilli idli is a favourite sidedish for lunch or dinner. The masala dosa is a perfect breakfast after a trek up the mountains.

 : Around the corner from Safeer Mall

Al Yaqoot Al Afghani Restaurant

Dine on hearty meals of stewed lamb and clove-spiced pulao under portraits of Sufi poets and pastoral paintings of the Hindu Kush. Hearty, affordable meals make Al Yaqoot a popular choice with truckers.

 : On the E11 after the Bin Majid Hotel

 : 07 235 1480

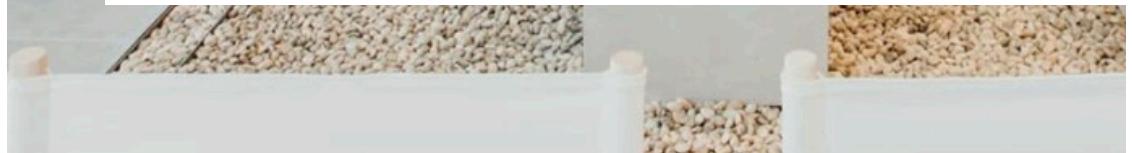

Any mandi restaurant

If you are road tripping through the Gulf and not sure where to eat, ask for the local mandi restaurant. Almost every town in the Gulf has a popular place that serves mandi, or grilled meat, and it's often the best spot in town. Most will have at least one hearty vegetarian dish. Mandi restaurants often serve dishes on the carpet floor of private rooms, without tables or cutlery. Eat with your right hand.

Taxis

It's quite easy to catch taxis from major spots like malls and hotels; however, if you're in a less busy area, call a local taxi company. To book a taxi from anywhere in Ras Al Khaimah, call 800 1700.

Careem and Hala Taxis also recently launched in the Emirate. You can book these taxis through the Careem app.

Owning a Car & Insurance

Owning a Car

If you intend to buy a brand-new car, there are many car dealerships in Ras Al Khaimah. You will need to show proof of your salary and have a no objection letter from your employer. There are also many used cars on sale at any given time on dubizzle.com (watch out for scams though). Once you have purchased a car, you will need to register it and likely purchase a Salik tag.

Shamil Car Registering

Once you have purchased a car, you'll have to register it at Shamil Car Registering. Cars must pass an inspection, be insured, and have all the proper documentation.

- 📍 : Sheikh Abdullah bin Mohamed Al Qasimi Rd, near Saqr Hospital
- 📞 : 07 221 0901

Department of Traffic and Licensing

This is where you go to get your driver's license. Depending on your home country's driver's license, you may be able to pay a set fee here to have your license converted into an Emirati one. Otherwise, you will likely have to take the formal test. If this is your first time driving, you will need to sign up for classes. Driving academies are available across the emirate.

- 📍 : Sheikh Muhammad bin Salem Rd
- 📞 : 07 235 6666

Salik

If you plan on driving in Dubai, be sure to purchase a Salik tag for your car from any gas station. Salik is similar to a toll pass in other countries. If you do not have a Salik pass on your car, you will be fined after passing through one of the gates.
