OxBlue And Computer Guidance Collaborate On Integrated Product Offering

Comprehensive Dashboard Provides Live View of Projects Alongside Financial Summary

ATLANTA, August, 5, 2013 – Computer Guidance Corporation, the leading developer of construction financial and project management software solutions for architecture, engineering and construction companies, and OxBlue, a leader in the construction camera industry, today announced the completion of efforts to integrate OxBlue's construction camera technology with Computer Guidance's comprehensive business operations dashboard.

OxBlue's construction camera interface is now integrated into Computer Guidance's business operations dashboard giving stakeholders a comprehensive at-a-glance view of their individual projects.

Computer Guidance's operations dashboard provides project managers, jobsite superintendents and other project stakeholders with an at-a-glance view of the financial performance for their individual projects. With the integration of OxBlue's construction cameras, the operations dashboard becomes a comprehensive solution for the management of a project by either on-site or remote personnel with both current and historical views of jobsite progress and financial data.

"Our construction cameras and automated time-lapse video technology have been changing the way that contractors manage their projects for over 12 years, helping contractors to reduce costs and increase efficiencies," stated Chandler McCormack, President, OxBlue Corp. "Integrating with products such as Computer Guidance's eCMS operations dashboard provides contractors with a single source for information, making it more convenient for them to find what they need and improving their ability to manage their projects."

"We are excited about the integrated dashboard offering that we are able to provide through our partnership with OxBlue and see the value that it will bring to our mutual customers," stated Michael Bihlmeier, President, Computer Guidance Corporation. "Our on-going strategy of integrating with third-party solution providers allows us to bring a more comprehensive solution to market encouraging our customers to go to a single source for all of their business intelligence needs."

"Integrating the OxBlue construction camera with products such as Computer Guidance's eCMS operations dashboard provides contractors with a single source for information, making it more convenient for them to find what they need and improving their ability to manage their projects."

Chandler McCormack, President of OxBlue