

Endless Construction Webcam Viewing Options Are on Display in OxBlue's New Gallery

ATLANTA, Nov. 27, 2013 – OxBlue, a leader in the construction camera industry, has added live camera demos, time-lapse movies and powerful photos in a new section of its website called the Gallery. OxBlue now offers website visitors the opportunity to experience first-hand the depth and breadth of its construction cameras' capabilities.

The Live Camera Demos Gallery enables visitors to experience in real time the OxBlue construction camera advantage in action. Visitors can select live cameras on projects in a variety of industries, from retail to heavy industrial, in a variety of locations from around the world.

In the Time-Lapse Movie Gallery, visitors can sample some of the company's professionally produced time-lapse movies compressed for play on the Internet. A time-lapse movie produced at the end of a project, based on the continuous time-lapse recordings made throughout the project, comes with the purchase of an OxBlue construction camera.

And, lastly, for sheer impact, is a section of the Gallery called simply "Powerful Photos." The photos in this section are dramatic once-in-a-lifetime photos, the kind clients will mount in their boardrooms, made possible only when a camera keeps a constant eye on the construction site, as OxBlue construction cameras do.

"We've had the privilege of documenting some amazing projects and wanted to share some of the photos and time-lapse movies with everyone else."

Chandler McCormack, president of OxBlue
