①

Acrylic is a unique material that offers excellent optical clarity and can be transformed into various extraordinary design solutions including aquarium viewing panels, pool viewing windows / transparent walls, architectural features as well as many scientific applications.

②

Acrylic is around 50% lighter and 17 times stronger than glass.

③

Acrylic is completely transparent whereas glass is affected by green tints.

An aerial photograph of a modern building's courtyard. In the foreground, a swimming pool is partially visible, with a glass-enclosed staircase leading down to it. The building's facade is made of light-colored brick or stone. A person is walking on the paved courtyard area. The overall scene is well-lit, suggesting daytime.
