Need technical sales support?
G12 will help engineer a custom solution the meets the needs of your customer

An experienced technical & sales team in your corner

Experienced voice sales & engineering team

Real-time communications services are complex. We let you offload the burden of explaining VoIP, SIP trunking, and other solutions, the entire design process for a system, and any of the technical details customers may have. Our sales engineers will walk them through these steps, ensuring that you'll get the sale.

Close opportunities & earn commissions, faster

Relationships matter in this competitive landscape. We work hard to support our agents by providing them with a competitive commission, access to our entire customer service team, and the ability to send the client to us directly. This ease of access lets you spend more time identifying and closing new sales.

Full-service integration & solutions provider

You never have to worry about piecing together different solutions. Any system built with G12 Communications will have access to everything a customer needs—from cloud PBX integrations with Microsoft Teams, SIP trunking, to more complex integrations involving softphones, direct routing for Microsoft Teams, and more.

Local customer service - 95% customer satisfaction rate

The majority of our customers stick around because we offer high-quality, local customer service, technical support, and we invest in helping our clients grow and scale their businesses in the competitive digital marketplace. We work hard to ensure our customers can enjoy high-quality and reliable communications.

See what our partners are saying

G12 is an Agent's ideal vendor. Pre-sales enables very quick and easy to understand quotes, no extra fees to explain to prospects, competitive rates, and their team is outstanding in front of customers. Post-sale is even more compelling. G12's team has deep expertise with wholesale, complex porting and migration strategies that result in seamless turn ups.
