the smile (r)evolution

Hey girl, what if today, Monday 8th March 2021, rather than starting a diet, we start building a future that's the colour of shocking pink? A world which is heading in the right direction, in which even the Leo risings among us can learn to say sorry;

a world in which there are more women who root for other women; a world in which there are more Ryan Goslings for everyone! To do this, we have to start from ourselves and ask ourselves, what kind of woman will I be? And so, these are our 12 promises...

♊ A woman who can listen to everyone, even when Bridgerton is on.

♋ A woman who, when life gives her lemons, will make a mojito with her friends.

♌ A woman who dances the Haka before the game and then makes an assist to her son, who scores the winning try.

♍ A woman who leaves her camera turned on for every video call, even if she hasn't done her hair or make-up.

♎ A woman who, if her friend is going through a break-up, comforts her with bread, Nutella and a shopping spree.

♏ A woman who would give Julia Roberts and Susan Sarandon in Stepmom a run for their money.

♐ A woman who fights for a better future and to be happy at present: she meets her girl friends after work everyday so they can plan how to conquer the world.

♑ A woman who, rather than worrying that her gel polish has come off one nail, will simply start a new trend.

♒ A woman who never tires of facing the world with a smile, especially since Ryan Gosling has been on this planet.

♓ A woman who can let things go but will never forgive the director of How I Met Your Mother! Robin & Barney 4ever

♈ A woman who has no trouble in sharing her highs and lows, but hands off her new shoes.

♉ A woman who is always willing to explore new ideas, apart from the most appalling one: putting cream in spaghetti carbonara.
