

Non-Touch Office Solutions

Heading back to work shouldn't compromise the health of your employees.

That's why LDI is pleased to introduce an array of non-touch technologies to aid in the transition back into offices. Our hardware and software solutions have been designed to reduce the spread of germs and increase business efficiency.

Did you know that some of the copiers and printers can be controlled remotely through your desktop, laptop, or through voice activation?

- Some devices feature voice activated copier commands utilizing Alexa-type voice recognition hardware
- Some devices emulate the control panel and hard keys on your local computer screen, thereby allowing users to operate all system functions remotely and limiting contact with the publicly used control panel
