PACIFIC NORTHWEST SAN JUAN ISLANDS ADVENTURE CRUISE

SEPTEMBER 24-29, 2022

on board UnCruise's Wilderness Discoverer

SEATTLE |
DECEPTION PASS /
STRAIT OF JUAN DE FUCA |
OLYMPIC NATIONAL PARK |
SAN JUAN ISLANDS |
SUCIA ISLAND

Are you looking for a vacation in the United States? Discover the enchanting islands on Washington State's wild coastline! Kayak among rocky outcroppings while spotting sea life. Explore dramatic Deception Pass by skiff. Hike mossy island forests frequented by red fox, deer, and woodpeckers. This voyage sails from the picturesque and easy-to-get-to city of Seattle, Washington. We will venture to spectacular, remote islands and sail through channels teeming with sea life—seals, sea lions, dall porpoises, river otters, and orca! We'll explore stunning channels, isolated bays and islets highlighting Olympic National Park and the San Juan Islands, a mecca for kayakers with its calm, sheltered waters and outstanding natural beauty.

Discover the wilderness and warm charm of the Pacific Northwest!

Like the Galápagos, no two islands are alike! On the islands, you'll hike through meadows and lush green forest trails, perhaps sighting a deer, bald eagles, sea lions, and a variety of shore birds in places they naturally congregate. Whether you go kayaking, take a skiff ride or relax onboard the ship, you can search for orca in this region, where they are seen more often than anywhere else in the Northern Hemisphere.

Activity levels range from easy to challenging—you choose. Are you looking for easy activity? Join a skiff ride along the shore or take an easy flat walk in the forest. You may even want to stay onboard to watch for sea life that's sure to swim by. If you are looking for something more challenging, join a hike to a vantage point for a birds-eye view of the archipelago or explore the islands by kayak or even paddleboard in the calm secluded bays. This cruise is a dream come true for everyone who has wildlife adventures and exquisite connection to nature on their bucket list.

On this all-inclusive cruise, Northwestern beer and wines flow freely while the chef creates tantalizing gourmet meals. By the end of this adventure it will be hard to pick your favorite experience—the places you visited, that animals you met, the new friends you made, the things you learned, or the food you ate!

If you are wanting to travel closer to home, with beautiful vast natural wonders to explore, in a virtually untouched part of the Pacific Northwest, this is the trip for you!

Saturday, September 24, 2022 | Seattle, WA (Embark)

In a region renowned as a boaters' paradise, your discovery begins from Fishermen's Terminal. Set sail via the ship canal to Lakes Union and Washington—their glacially-formed basins dug more than 12,000 years ago. After dinner, a sunset cruise through the historic Hiram M. Chittenden Locks and into Elliott Bay sets you right for the night. Seattle was founded along these shores and you don't want to miss the skyline!

Sunday, September 25, 2022 |

Deception Pass / Strait of Juan de Fuca

A guided kayak reveals local inhabitants—sea stars, anemones, jelly fish, perhaps even inquisitive harbor seals. Walk along a curiosity-rich intertidal zone or stretch your legs on a mossy hike. And tides and current permitting, perhaps even sail through the swirling waters of Deception Pass. Later in the day, keep watch for marine mammals as you venture into the open waters where the Strait of Juan de Fuca meets Puget Sound.

Monday, September 26, 2022 | Olympic National Park

Dock in the little town of Port Angeles, Washington early this morning. After breakfast take a scenic transfer into the famed Olympic National Park. The day will be spent hiking and exploring the park. Arrive back in town after lunch and enjoy a stroll. Depart during dinner for the San Juan Islands. Keep an eye out for whales as we depart!

Tuesday, September 27, 2022 | San Juan Islands

Wake up surrounded by the wilds of the Salish Sea, a humbling 360 degrees of wilderness. It's the captain's choice where you'll land today, but rest assured, you'll be away from the crowds. There are unending options for investigating this sea-salty playground. If you're kayaking, keep your eyes peeled above and below the surface. Rocky outcroppings play host to harbor seals—and it's also orca territory. Ashore, it's one boot in front of the other, hike through the forest or "take the high road" to ridges overlooking the archipelago. Join your expedition team on deck to search for whales, seals, orcas, sea lions, and bird rookeries as you cruise through the myriad San Juans—no two islands are the same.

Wednesday, September 28, 2022 | Sucia Island

The treats keep coming! With no paved roads or even ferry access, enjoy your day on picturesque Sucia Island—total year-round population of four—a Washington State Marine Park filled with hidden coves and bays. You feel a million miles away from it all, exploring the intertidal zone with your guides, hiking across the island, and kayaking in a protected bay. It's all up for grabs. Top off your adventure with a celebratory Farewell Dinner and a special presentation from your expedition team.

Thursday, September 29, 2022 | Seattle, WA (Disembark)

This morning, cruise through the Hiram M. Chittenden Locks and tie up back in Seattle's Fishermen's Terminal. After breakfast, the captain and crew bid you a fond farewell. Safe travels to all!

ACTIVITY LEVEL

The entire trip does require a certain level of mobility—walking on uneven terrain, gentle hiking uphill, and getting in and out of skiffs (smaller boats) from the ship and on shore for “wet” landings. The ship also has steep stairwells to get to each deck and does not offer elevators. If you do have limited mobility that requires assistance, you are required to travel with someone who can assist you.

FLIGHTS

Transfers from and to the Seattle airport (SEA) are included on embarkation and disembarkation day. All flights should arrive at SEA by 2 pm on embarkation day, September 24, 2022. All flights should depart SEA after 12 pm on disembarkation day, September 29, 2022.
