It's where you go to see how many pages you're on, but it can be more.

Consider it an opportunity for expanded coverage.

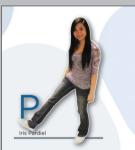

• In an anniversary volume, compare the first year to the current year.

 Cover academic, extracurricular, and co-curricular groups, featuring officers, members, activities. competitions and awards.

• Include facts & figures that define the year: prices of gas, movies, fast food, popular apparel, concerts (be specific), pro sporting events, music & video downloads, etc. Also, include minimum wage figures.

Paige, Amanda 235 Palmaffy, Noah 90, 92, 235 Palmer, Michael 99, 148, 222, 235

Pankratz, Hannah 13, 223, 235, 333 Pannell, Joshua 235 Pape, Logan 130, 235 Park, Collin 114, 156, 207,

222, 235

• Use the alphabetical dividers to highlight students whose last names begin with the letter. • Tie coverage to social media initiatives or website content.

• Feature additional pictures and quotes.

Habitat for Humanity 346 Hachem, Timothy 257

• Highlight state & national events that occurred during the year.

• Include group shots in the index because both of them are readers' aids. Keep head sizes large enough to identify individual students.

