

SUMMIT MINISTRIES

Graduate Survey Report

REVISED:

March 13, 2020

GRADUATE SURVEY REPORT

Purpose:

The overall purpose of the survey was to understand the long-term impact of Summit Student Conferences on graduates over the last number of years. This survey sought to broadly “update the results” of a similar study (Turning The Tide) that was completed in 2012, demonstrating that Summit’s Student Conferences have a highly significant influence on student’s biblical worldview, spiritual disciples and life habits.

Process:

Email invitations were sent by Summit to those graduates where contact information was available (approximately 13,000 individuals). Invitations were emailed twice and text invitations were also sent to 800 individuals where that information was available. In addition, Summit placed notices through their Social Media platforms about the survey. Free access to selected Summit resources was also provided as an incentive for taking the survey, along with entering the individuals into a drawing for gift cards. Following are the overall response statistics:

- Total of 675 survey participants (maximum number that started the survey and completed at least one question) for roughly a 5.2% response rate
- Total of 477 individuals completed the entire survey

Assessment Categories:

In order to provide a better level of understanding of the survey results – especially as it relates to what the scores mean for the organization overall (consolidated results) – the following assessment categories are used for each of the Lickert-scale questions:

STRENGTH: the combined score of Strongly Agree and Agree is 70% or greater.

WEAKNESS: the combined score of Strongly Disagree and Disagree is 25% or greater.

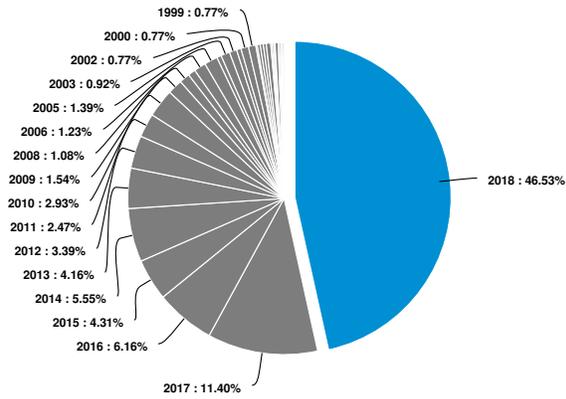

AREA OF CONCERN: the scores rank between the Strength or Weakness parameters.

For each chart, the consolidated result is reflected as a color bar and if a particular segment has a different overall assessment score, it is shown as text in the appropriate color. For example, the following shows the consolidated result as a strength (the color bar), but for those that are 35+ years old, it was rated as a weakness (the colored text), as well as for those that attended 2 or more times. For those that have utilized Summit’s curriculum, it was rated as an Area of Concern.

Questions 78 - 81 are open-ended text responses, and are available in the Appendix with answers to:

- 78. Looking back, what were some of the best aspects of your Summit experience?
- 79. Looking back, what were some of the worst aspects of your Summit experience?
- 80. Knowing what you know now, what additional subjects should Summit teach?
- 81. How can Summit Ministries better support you in championing a Christian worldview?

82. Which of the following Summit resources would be most helpful for you to champion a Christian worldview? (check all that apply)

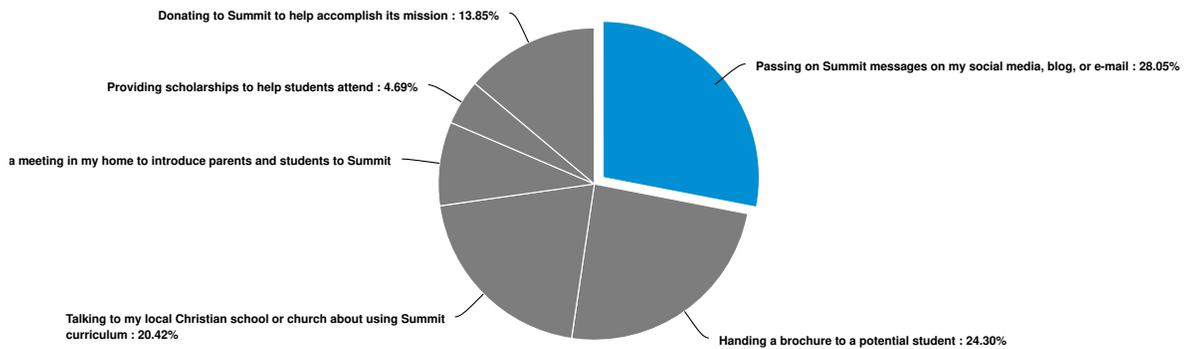

Answer	Count	Percent	20%	40%	60%	80%	100%
Short Videos about Christian worldview	368	27.18%

OTHER:

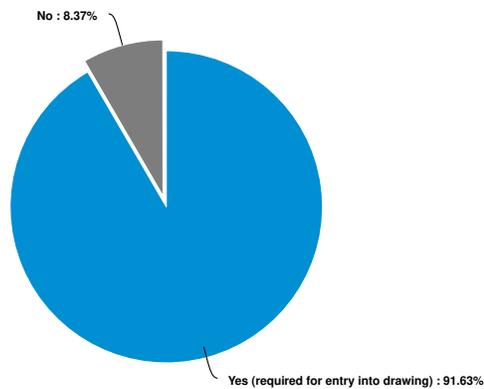

- A mailed newsletter with articles supporting this
- A Newspaper. Or maybe a blog, that would be cool.
- A paragraph or speech that encourages and includes a message about the Christian worldview
- A podcast would be extremely helpful in getting people to attend Summit. I have many students and mentees who are interested in the subjects Summit covers. If there was a podcast I believe that it would help draw in more students.
- Alumni club
- Book recommendations based on the 10 disciplines.
- Books (2)
- Bro have you heard about Wittgenstein? Heidegger? Derrida? Dewey? That's some good stuff, yo. Highly recommend.
- Connections to go deeper into Christian approaches to various disciplines (ie, economics, medical ethics, etc)
- Connections. Summit has a vast network of alumni and instructors/ speakers who cover a variety of fields. Some are in apologetics, others in research, media, public speaking, if Summit were to offer a platform to students who are looking to find mentors or job positions that match their own beliefs, this would be a great benefit to past and future attendees.
- Conversations, forums, etc.
- Discussion Groups
- Free books
- Free events that we can attend
- I do not wish to champion worldviews anymore. Instead, I wish to become a student of the world which I've merely viewed
- I wouldn't mind receiving long videos of summit lectures. I might just rarely have time to watch them
- Inexpensive Books
- Letters sent to us with visual reminders and representations of what we have learned
- Local conferences (like STR's conferences).
- Mini classes? I have no idea if there are mini sessions. If they were offered in a small cities around the country, in state, or other places I would go to a one-day or weekend refresher course put on by Summit.
- More local events with speakers/trainings.
- Narrative Multi Media Content
- Open mindedness towards Yahweh
- Phone calls with real people so we can suggest the content we need the most help with instead of sifting through the content you provide to try to find answers to our questions. Real conversation would be a huge blessings.
- Podcasts would be great!!!
- Reliability of the Christian worldview
- Snapchat, Instagram, Pinterest, etc.
- Somewhere to ask questions
- Testimonies of people living out their faith.
- Youth group curriculum
