Enterprise Mobility

Manage vendors, enforce policy, and gain efficiencies through augmenting your team with Advantage experts that bring extended value to your mobile program

Centralize your mobile environment to reap visibility and cost savings like never before.

The need for immediate access to online content and high-bandwidth business applications has made mobility a vital element in every company's business plan. But the wide variety of devices, service providers, plans and features, combined with variable elements like employee travel and turnover, make the management of a corporate mobility environment a daunting task. It is no longer efficient to track and manage mobility via spreadsheets and emails while also auditing bills, monitoring contacts, and requesting credits from carriers. Expense management aside, just administering a mobile program for a large user base creates resourcing challenges for device ordering, elongates helpdesk response times, and complicates large scale device rollouts.

Advantage brings enterprise mobility solutions, or managed mobility services (MMS), to help businesses around the world better manage their enterprise mobile assets. Through a mix of technology, people, and process, we scrutinize every element of your corporate mobility environment on a daily basis to optimize your costs, increase your efficiency and provide you with real-time visibility and control. All with no change in service to your end users and reduction of management overhead.
