

Employment opportunity

Associate Director, New York

Your skills and experience

At least 7 years of experience in market research, including within the healthcare industry. Significant experience in leading projects and client management. A desire to progress your business development skills, with the ultimate aim of generating your own clients.

Your primary role

Your research responsibilities will be to oversee projects and project teams, be the main point of contact with the client and write and give client presentations. You will also run a management team with responsibilities involving conducting appraisals, pay reviews, monitoring of performance, personal development, training of staff, recruitment and developing and implementing internal company procedures.

You will also be looking to take your first steps in formal business development. You will write proposals to win new business, consider timescales and calculate the research cost alongside Directors.

Further information

This is a full-time role, based in our New York office, conveniently located in Midtown Manhattan. We offer formal as well as on-the-job training, competitive salaries, and opportunities for internal advancement, health benefits, and a 401K plan with company contributions. If you have the drive and dedication, the sky's the limit!

About Research Partnership

We are the largest independent healthcare market research and consulting agency in the world. Trusted partner to the global pharmaceutical industry, we use our expertise and experience to deliver intelligent, tailor-made solutions.

Enjoy a successful and fulfilling career with us

researchpartnership.com/vacancies

London Lyon Singapore
New York Philadelphia San Francisco
