

ATTENTION CENTRAL PARK RESIDENTS

- There is a current course of action, which will likely cost Central Park property owners $65-70 million over the coming decades. Starting this year, the cost will be approximately $3 million in additional taxes.
- Park Creek Metropolitan District has saved the Central Park community over $261 million in interest savings since 2015.
- If the two Central Park special districts can come to an understanding we can save the citizens of Central Park millions of dollars in taxes.

Please join me for a meeting at the Master Community Association, 8371 Northfield Blvd., Denver, Colorado 80238, August 11, 2021, at 6 p.m. MDT. I am hopeful that this letter and the meeting on August 11, 2021 provide Central Park residents with the basic facts needed to help ensure that we can arrive at a solution to this issue.
