

Craig Schnuriger

Acting CTO

As MedAdvisor's Acting CTO, Craig leads the technical team as it scales the company's platform to help patients manage their medication globally.

Completing a Bachelor of Business Systems in 2003, Craig has worked in IT ever since. Prior to working at MedAdvisor, Craig had roles at Ernst & Young, Shell and Tenix Solutions.

In 2011 Craig took his experience over to the US to work on the first generation of pharmacy/insurance connected mobile applications to support patients taking chronic medications. He brought this expertise back to the Australian market and has been with MedAdvisor since its inception in 2013. Craig has worked extensively within the pharmacy industry within Australia and recognizes the role of technology in supporting patients, pharmacists and doctors.

Over the years, Craig has held several roles at MedAdvisor including Head of Engineering, Head of Architecture and now the CTO role.