Changing Voicemail Messages

Changing a voicemail message

To change your voicemail message first Identify which hunt group your calls will go to during out-of-hours.

Your hunt group is where voicemail message is located. Go to your main hunt group with the schedule, Click Advanced Settings – Edit Schedule. The Forward to number is the upload location for your new voicemail.

On the voicemail hunt group, click Voicemail, then the Change button next to your current audio recording (please note, your existing recording cannot be downloaded from the system, please ensure that you have the recording on file).

Alternatively, you can record a new file for when you're ready to change back. Click Save when new file name appears in bold.

Once the temporary closure event is over, manually replace the audio file with your original recording following the same steps. This is not an automatic process.

Recording and converting audio files

You can use any recording software on a smartphone or PC to record your audio. This will then require conversion to match the audio specification shown below prior to upload.
