

Target Market Determination – Funds Management

This Target Market Determination (TMD) is required under section 994B of the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (the Act). It sets out the class of consumers for whom the product, including its key attributes, would likely be consistent with their likely objectives, financial situation and needs. In addition, the TMD outlines the triggers to review the target market and certain other information. It forms part of One Management Investment Funds Limited's design and distribution arrangements for the product.

This document is not a product disclosure statement and is not a summary of the product features or terms of the product. This document does not take into account any person's individual objectives, financial situation or needs. Persons interested in acquiring this product should carefully read the Product Disclosure Statement (PDS) for Landen Funds ARSN 653 001 015 and the Supplementary Product Disclosure Statement the Specific Investment Fund – Fairway (SPDS) before making a decision whether to invest in Landen Funds.

Important terms used in this TMD are defined in the TMD Definitions which supplement this document. Capitalised terms have the meaning given to them in the PDS and SPDS, unless otherwise defined. The PDS and SPDS can be obtained at www.funds.landen.com.au.

Target Market Summary

This product is likely to be appropriate for a consumer seeking to diversify their investment portfolio to include exposure to secured loans with a higher rate of return commensurate with the risk exposure. The Class will be exposed to loans that are secured against the borrower's assets which may eventually include Australian real property. Consumers in the target market have a medium investment timeframe, high risk appetite and limited needs for access to capital or regular income.

Description of Target Market

TMD indicator key

The Consumer Attributes for which the product is likely to be appropriate have been assessed using a red/amber/green rating methodology with appropriate colour coding:

In target market	Potentially in target market	Not considered in target market
------------------	------------------------------	---------------------------------

Instructions

In the tables below, Column 1, Consumer Attributes, indicates a description of the likely objectives, financial situation and needs of the class of consumers that are considering this product. Column 2, TMD indicator, indicates whether a consumer meeting the attribute in column 1 is likely to be in the target market for this product.

Generally, a consumer is unlikely to be in the target market for the product if:

- one or more of their Consumer Attributes correspond to a red rating, or
- three or more of their Consumer Attributes correspond to an amber rating.

Investment products and diversification

A consumer (or class of consumer) may intend to hold a product as part of a diversified portfolio (typically with an intended product use of satellite/small allocation or core component). In such circumstances, the product should be assessed against the consumer's attributes for the relevant portion of the portfolio, rather than the consumer's portfolio as a whole. For example, a consumer may seek to construct a conservative portfolio with a satellite/small allocation to growth assets. In this case, it may be likely that a product with a High or Very High risk/return profile is consistent with the consumer's objectives for that allocation notwithstanding that the risk/return profile of the consumer as a whole is Low or Medium. In making this assessment, distributors should consider all features of a product (including its key attributes).

Consumer Attributes	TMD Indicator	Product description including key attributes
Consumer's investment objective
Capital Growth	Not considered in target market	The Fairway Class of Units invests in a Specific Investment Fund which will advance secured loans for a fixed term to a borrower related to the Investment Manager. The borrower will provide security for the loan expected to be sufficient to preserve investors capital, however there is a risk that in the event of a borrower default, the amount realised on the enforcement of the security will be insufficient to return all of investors' capital. Distributions are not expected to be paid regularly and the first distribution is expected to be paid 11 months after date of the initial drawdown date. An investment in the Fairway Class of Units is not capital guaranteed, as is the case for most investments in managed investment schemes.
Capital Preservation	In target market
Capital Guaranteed	Not considered in target market
Income Distribution	Potentially in target market.

Consumer Attributes	TMD Indicator	Product description including key attributes
Consumer's intended product use (% of Investable Assets)
Solution/Standalone (75-100%)	Not considered in target market	The Fairway Class of Units invests in one Specific Investment Fund that has made a loan to one borrower developing one Australian property. We consider an investment in the Fairway Class of Units is most likely suitable for investors seeking a satellite/small (<25%) allocation. Although the Fund has a single asset class, over time it is expected to offer different classes of units which will invest in separate Specific Investment Funds with exposure to different types of loans and security. Each Specific Investment Fund is referable to one class of units and is not considered a diversified investment. Investors will, however, be able to diversify their secured loan investment allocation by selecting exposure to a number of different types of loans available through different classes of units on offer by the Fund and accordingly investment in the Fund as a whole may be suitable for investors allocating a core component, up to 50%, of their investible assets.
Core Component (25-75%)	Not considered in target market
Satellite/small allocation (<25%)	In target market
Consumer's investment timeframe
Short (≤ 2 years)	Potentially in target market.	The Fairway Class of Units invests in one Specific Investment Fund that has made a fixed term loan of 2 years to the Borrower. The loan may be extended in certain limited circumstances. If there is a default, the loan will not be repaid until the security is enforced and the assets realised. An investment in the Fairway Class of Units is illiquid and no liquidity event will be available to an investor before the expiry of the loan or enforcement of the security (if applicable).
Medium (> 2 years)	In target market
Long (> 5 years)	Not considered in target market
Consumer's Risk (ability to bear loss) and Return profile
Low	Not considered in target market	The Fairway Class of Units invests in one Specific Investment Fund that has made a loan to a borrower where initially the security will be the borrower's corporate assets until it can acquire title to the development land. The loan to value ratio will be 80% of the as if complete value of the land. There is a risk of a default by the borrower and if the proceeds realised from the security is insufficient at the time it is enforced, there is a risk that investors will suffer a loss.
Medium	Not considered in target market
High	Not considered in target market
Very High	In target market

Term	Definition
Consumer's investment objective
Capital Growth	The consumer seeks to invest in a product designed to generate capital return. The consumer prefers exposure to growth assets (such as shares or property) or otherwise seeks an investment return above the current inflation rate.
Capital Preservation	The consumer seeks to invest in a product to reduce volatility and minimise loss in a market down-turn. The consumer prefers exposure to defensive assets (such as cash or fixed income securities) that are generally lower in risk and less volatile than growth investments.
Capital Guaranteed	The consumer seeks a guarantee or protection against capital loss whilst still seeking the potential for capital growth (typically gained through a derivative arrangement). The consumer would likely understand the complexities, conditions and risks that are associated with such products.
Income Distribution	The consumer seeks to invest in a product designed to distribute regular and/or tax-effective income. The consumer prefers exposure to income-generating assets (typically, high dividend-yielding equities, fixed income securities and money market instruments).
Consumer's intended product use (% of Investable Assets)
Solution/Standalone (75-100%)	The consumer intends to hold the investment as either a part or the majority (up to 100%) of their total investable assets (see definition below). The consumer typically prefers exposure to a product with at least High portfolio diversification (see definitions below).
Core Component (25-75%)	The consumer intends to hold the investment as a major component, up to 75%, of their total investable assets (see definition below). The consumer typically prefers exposure to a product with at least Medium portfolio diversification (see definitions below).
Satellite (<25%)	The consumer intends to hold the investment as a smaller part of their total portfolio, as an indication it would be suitable for up to 25% of the total investable assets (see definition below). The consumer is likely to be comfortable with exposure to a product with Low portfolio diversification (see definitions below).

Term	Definition
Investable Assets	Those assets that the investor has available for investment, excluding the residential home.

Medium	1-2 asset classes, single country, broad exposure within asset class, e.g. Aussie equities "All Ords".

Long (> 5 years)	The consumer has a long investment timeframe and is unlikely to redeem within five years.
Consumer's Risk (ability to bear loss) and Return profile
A consumer's desired product return profile would generally take into account the impact of fees, costs and taxes.
Low	The consumer is conservative or low risk in nature, seeks to minimise potential losses (e.g. has the ability to bear up to 1 negative return over a 20 year period (SRM 1 to 2)) and is comfortable with a low target return profile. Consumer typically prefers defensive assets such as cash and fixed income.
Medium	The consumer is moderate or medium risk in nature, seeking to minimise potential losses (e.g. has the ability to bear up to 4 negative returns over a 20 year period (SRM 3 to 5)) and comfortable with a moderate target return profile. Consumer typically prefers a balance of growth assets such as shares, property and alternative assets and defensive assets such as cash and fixed income.
High	The consumer is higher risk in nature and can accept higher potential losses (e.g. has the ability to bear up to 6 negative returns over a 20 year period (SRM 6)) in order to target a higher target return profile. Consumer typically prefers predominantly growth assets such as shares, property and alternative assets with only a smaller or moderate holding in defensive assets such as cash and fixed income.
Very high	The consumer has a more aggressive or very high risk appetite, seeks to maximise returns and can accept higher potential losses (e.g. has the ability to bear 6 or more negative returns over a 20 year period (SRM 7) and possibly other risk factors, such as leverage). Term	Definition
Consumer's need to withdraw money
Issuers should consider in the first instance the redemption request frequency under ordinary circumstances. However, the redemption request frequency is not the only consideration when determining the ability to meet the investor's requirement to access capital. To the extent that the liquidity of the underlying investments or possible liquidity constraints (e.g. ability to stagger or delay redemptions) could impact this, this is to be taken into consideration in completing this section.
Daily/Weekly/Monthly/Quarterly/ Annually or longer	The consumer seeks to invest in a product which permits redemption requests at this frequency under ordinary circumstances and the issuer is typically able to meet that request within a reasonable period.
Distributor Reporting
Significant dealings	Section 994F(6) of the Act requires distributors to notify the issuer if they become aware of a significant dealing in the product that is not consistent with the TMD. Neither the Act nor ASIC defines when a dealing is 'significant' and distributors have discretion to apply its ordinary meaning. The issuer will rely on notifications of significant dealings to monitor and review the product, this TMD, and its distribution strategy, and to meet its own obligation to report significant dealings to ASIC. Dealings outside this TMD may be significant because: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • they represent a material proportion of the overall distribution conduct carried out by the distributor in relation to the product, or • they constitute an individual transaction which has resulted in, or will or is likely to result in, significant detriment to the consumer (or class of consumer). In each case, the distributor should have regard to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the nature and risk profile of the product (which may be indicated by the product's risk rating or withdrawal timeframes), • the actual or potential harm to a consumer (which may be indicated by the value of the consumer's investment, their intended product use or their ability to bear loss), and • the nature and extent of the inconsistency of distribution with the TMD (which may be indicated by the number of red or amber ratings attributed to the consumer). Objectively, a distributor may consider a dealing (or group of dealings) outside the TMD to be significant if: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • it constitutes more than half of the distributor's total retail product distribution conduct in relation to the product over the reporting period, • the consumer's intended product use is Solution / Standalone, or • the consumer's intended product use is Core component and the consumer's risk (ability to bear loss) and return profile is Low.
